ITEMS TO BE SPECIALLY NOTED.

Our Correspondents will avoid needless friction in settlements, if they will see that the following principles, which are the rules of the Coffee Trade generally, are clearly understood by buyers, as a basis for all contracts with us :

Unless otherwise provided for in contract, the terms of all sales of Coffee are understood to be : note at sixty days from date of sale, payable in New York.

If, for the convenience of the Buyer, payment of notes should be provided for at his place of business, the note should be dated back five days, to cover the usual charge by banks for loss of interest in collection on paper maturing out of the City, and should also be made payable with Exchange on New York.

Delivery is where stored, with unexpired privileges of Storage and Insurance. All expenses thereafter are for account of Buyer, as well as all damage, or loss in weight after being weighed up by Seller.

No allowances are made for delay in shipping, unless the goods are not ready for delivery ; as the shipment is usually a matter of convenience to the Transportation Company, which is selected by the Buyer.

Payment under specific cash discount is due within seven days, and any option of specific cash discount provided for, expires on the seventh day.

Interest on anticipations is credited, and on payments after maturity is charged, at Six per cent. per annum.

Bills remaining open are payable on the sixtieth day at the seller's office, in funds current at par.

Open accounts do not bear grace. Checks on out-of-town Banks may be subject to discount for Exchange.

Conditions stipulated by the Buyer, not assented to by the seller, are not binding on the latter.

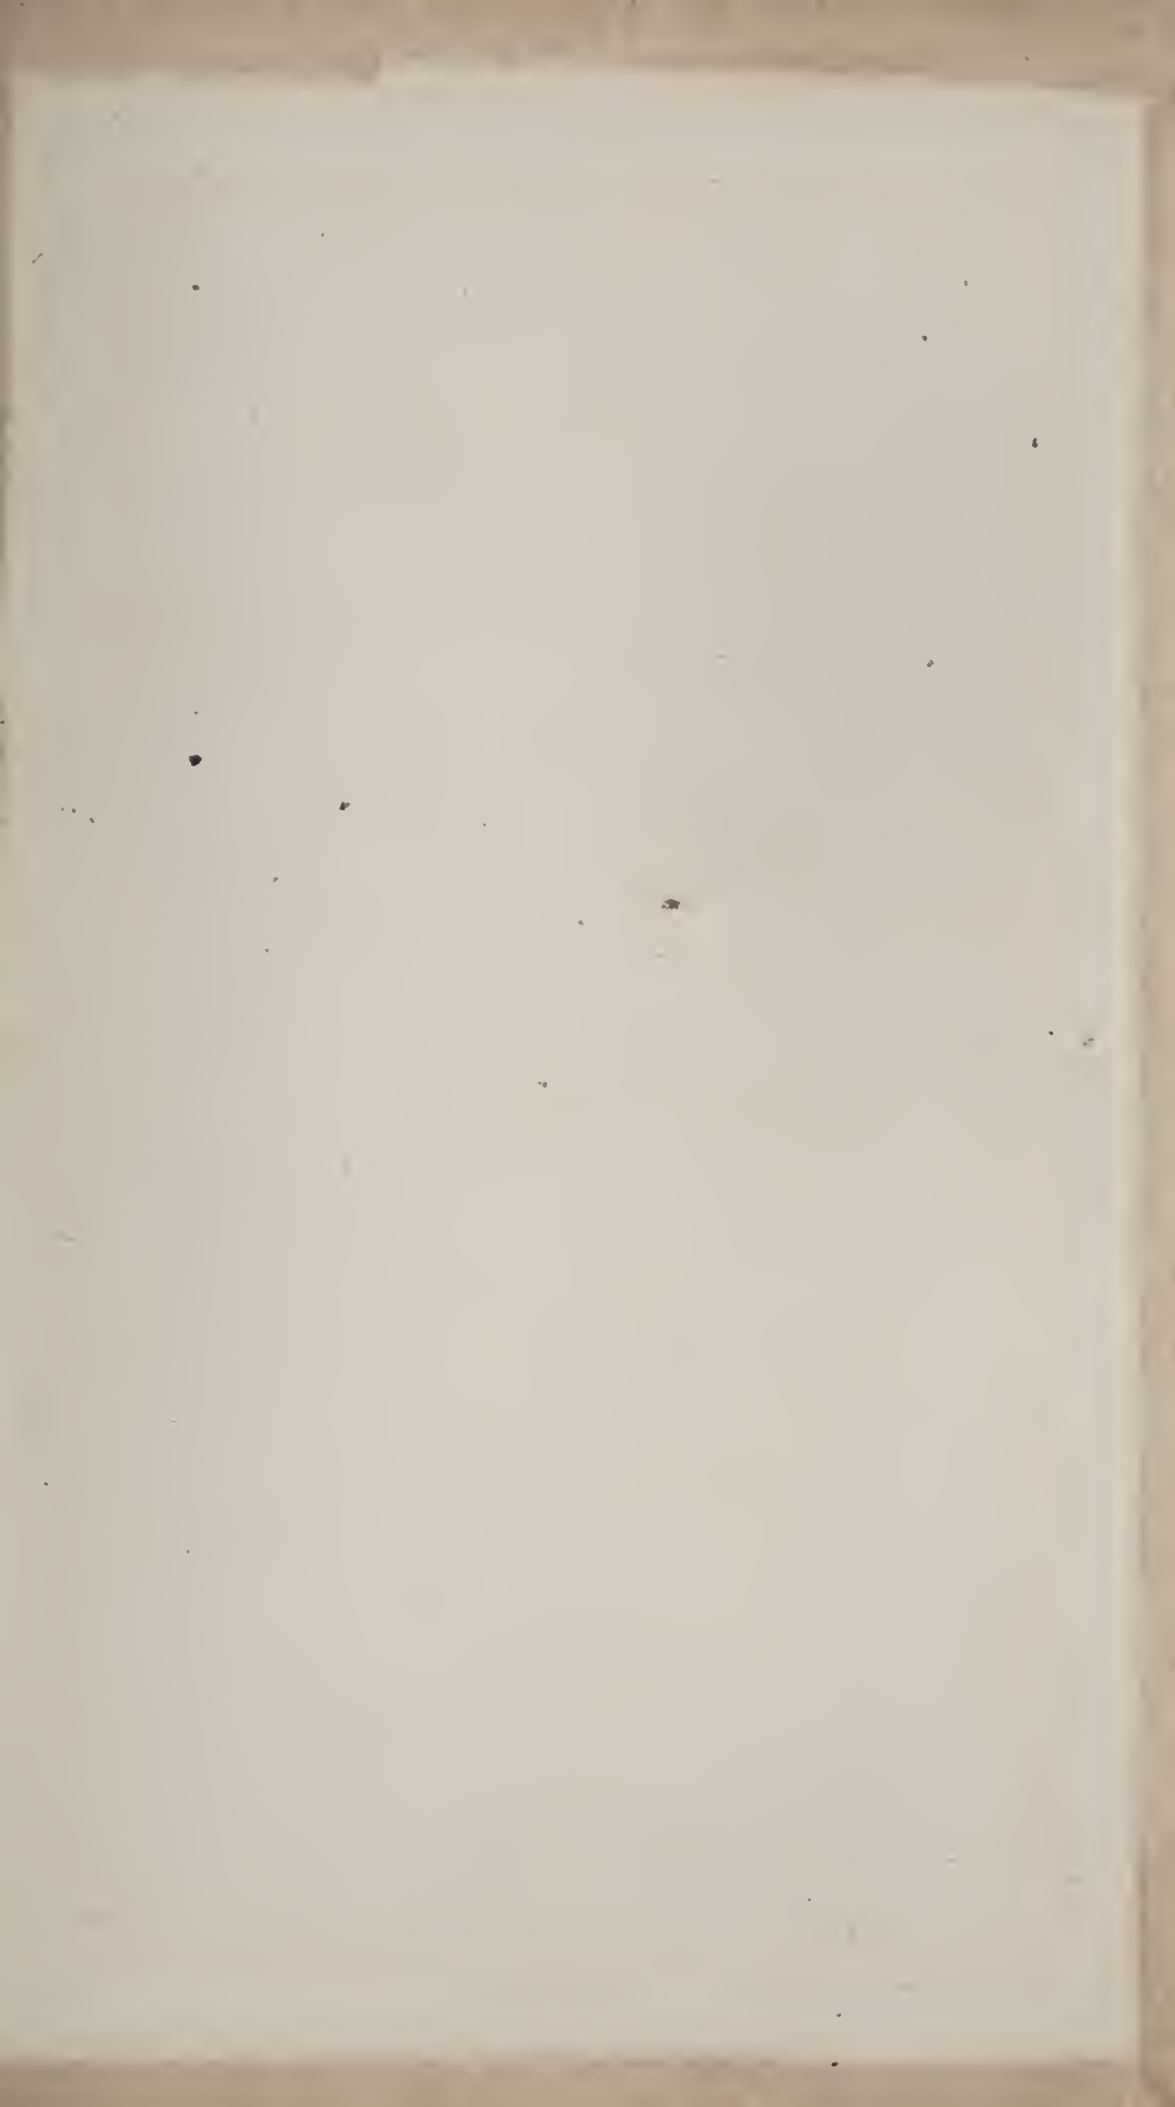

Date of bill, and Shipment.

Below will be found the reply to a question relative to the date of a bill sold to out-of-town parties, as it appeared in the "SHIPPING & COMMERCIAL LIST" of October 21, 1885.

REPLY—If the buyer stipulates that shipment is to be made on a specified day, and the seller accepts such a condition, the buyer is entitled to rebate if the shipment is not made as agreed, provided there has been no unavoidable delay. We are informed, however, by large local dealers, that such a stipulation is rarely made, and that it is the custom of the Trade to date bills on the day of sale, the Coffee remaining in store or being shipped as the buyer elects, and all delays and expenses thereafter are for his account. Self-interest compels the seller to make shipment, when requested, as promptly as possible. Holidays, inclement weather, insufficient facilities provided by the Transportation Company, (which is always selected by the buyer and not by the seller, and not always designated at the time of contract) are the chief causes of delay. Negligence on the part of the seller would of course be chargeable to him. The Weigher's Certificate is not always evidence of the average date of delivery, being usually dated when issued, say frequently several days after the bulk of the Coffee may have been shipped.

The Bill of Lading is not evidence of the date of delivery; transportation companies often decline to date receipts previous to the receipt of the Coffee from the Lighter, which may have received the Coffee from the shipper in Brooklyn two or three days previously, and remained at the wharf to complete the cargo. The irregular service of the free lighters furnished by the various lines of transportation is something that interior buyers do not appreciate. They would doubtless object to having the Coffee promptly carted from the warehouse to the freight station at their expense, when cartage might be saved by a short delay ; yet if the buyer was to be charged with this delay, he would be entitled to choose the quickest means of dispatch. Delays of a week have been caused by the failure to procure the services of a lighter for a small lot of Coffee. The lighter being the agent of the Transportation Co. chosen by the buyer, cannot be controlled by the seller, who must on the contrary submit to the convenience of the buyer's agent. Nearly all sales before 3 P. M. could be shipped by carts on the same day, except on Saturday, when the warehouses close at 1 P. M., and, the delay being for the benefit of the buyer, he should assume the consequent loss of one, two, or three days' interest. Then again, the buyer in the interior naturally would not wish it to cost any more to sell Coffee to him than to a City buyer, who invariably accepts the date of sale as the date of bill, and removes the Coffee at his pleasure. Often when agreeing upon a price with the broker, the seller does not know whether the buyer is in the city or country, and there should be no uncertainty as to the amount he is to receive under the contract. It is clear, therefore, that the buyer has duties to perform as well as the seller, and so long as due diligence has been observed on both sides, there ought to be a fair division of responsibility, and no friction.
